Family Day

Sunday, 25 June
11:00 am – 3:00 pm

This Family Day is a great opportunity to visit the exhibition The Art of Science: Baudin's Voyagers 1800-1804, wonder at the scientific drawings from 200 years ago and to join in some fun and interesting activities. Meet a TMAG scientist who has just returned from a scientific voyage, learn a new skill and tap into your imagination.

All activities are free and open to all ages.

Getting Into Knots

Knowing your knots is vital when going exploring.
Come along and practise your knot making or learn a new skill with an expert knot maker from 10th Hobart Scout Group.

Location:
Central Gallery

Map Making with the Art Cart

Create your own Explorer's map with mythical sea creatures and strange plants. Which far-away lands will you journey to?

Location:
Central Gallery

Shaping Shells

Use your observation and imagination to create a mixed media shell artwork.
Take inspiration from detailed shell illustrations in the exhibition The Art of Science: Baudin's Voyagers 1800-1804.

Location:
Centre for Learning and Discovery

Create some shell artwork

Spot the Knot!

Take a journey around the Islands to Ice: Antarctica and the Southern Ocean gallery and see if you can spot the knots in the displays. Place your entry into the box and you may be the lucky winner of a Museum Shop voucher.

Location:
Central Gallery

TMAG Trail

Pick up your TMAG Explorer's logbook and navigate your way around the museum and art gallery.

Location:
Collect your copy from the Visitor Information Desk

Dr Kirrily Moore

Science Exploration Today

Nicolas Baudin led his voyage of discovery over 200 years ago, and scientists still go on sea voyages today to learn about the ocean and the life it contains.

Come and meet TMAG's Dr Kirrily Moore and hear about her recent voyage, Sampling the Abyss on the RV Investigator along the east coast of Australia, and see specimens collected from similar exploratory voyages.

Location: Central Gallery

Backpacks, Toolkits and Art Boxes

Come along, sit back, relax and listen to some story readings about journeys and exploration.

Location:
Centre for Learning and Discovery

Times:
11:00 am, 12:00 pm,
1:00 pm and 2:00 pm
